

COMING TO THE THEATERS.

Columbia—"The Cross-Ways."

The special performance of "The Cross-Ways," which Mrs. Langtry gave at the Imperial Theater, in London, just before sailing for America, was "commanded" by the King and Queen of England. It is the first time any English player has received such an honor. The theater was entirely given over to the members of the royal family and their friends, and no tickets were sold. Mrs. Langtry, with characteristic generosity, reserved a large portion of the pit and gallery for the servants of the King's household. Queen Alexandra sent her a delightful letter in acknowledgment of this courtesy. Between the third and fourth acts Mrs. Langtry was invited to the royal box, and both the King and Queen were enthusiastic in their praises of her work as actress and dramatist. "The Cross-Ways" will be presented at the Columbia Theater during the week of February 16, exactly as it was given by Mrs. Langtry at the Imperial Theater in London, and the English actress will wear the gowns she had made especially for that occasion. The company supporting Mrs. Langtry is one of unusual strength.

National—"The Altar of Friendship."

"The Altar of Friendship," N. C. Goodwin and Miss Maxine Elliott's present play, is the offering at the New National for the coming week. The piece was pronounced an artistic success in the metropolis and had a long run at the Knickerbocker Theater. It also received the indorsement of critics in Philadelphia, Chicago and Baltimore on the ground of clean-cut character-drawing and deft touches of pathos and humor. Love is the underlying motive. First, the love of an elder brother for a younger sister. Second, the love that passes all understanding, the love of a true man for a pure woman. For the love of the first, Richard Arbutnot (Mr. Goodwin) sacrifices himself, and through that sacrifice gains the love of the woman whom he had waged to provide with a husband, little dreaming that he himself would be the loser of that wager, but the gainer of a partner for life. Of course, this happy ending in the game of love comes about only after many heartaches and heartbreaks, in which Sally Sartoris (Miss Elliott) discovers that her fate is the man with whom she thought she could never fall in love. Mrs. Riley handles these scenes with so much deftness that the interest never lacks, and through her cleverness she has constructed a part for Mr. Goodwin that gives to his comedy talents many moments when he reaches out and grasps that weltering of emotion, the heart, of his audiences.

MEDELSSOHN'S "ST. PAUL" BY THE CHORAL SOCIETY

An Adequate Performance of a Great Composition.

"St. Paul," Mendelssohn's beautiful oratorio, was presented by the Choral Society Tuesday night at the First Congregational Church before an audience which filled every available inch of space of the auditorium. It was an audience, too, evidently in full sympathy with the efforts of both chorus and soloists, for, with somewhat questionable taste and detracting in a measure from the high dignity of the occasion, applause broke forth at the conclusion of nearly every number. Not that this was not measurably deserved, for, as a whole, the performance was deserving of commendation, even though to the trained ear there were distinct flaws now and then.

The work of the chorus, under the able direction of Prof. Josef Kaspar, while in the main satisfactory, lacked at times that precision of attack and clearness of expression which are of especial value in oratorio. Considering the number of singers, the volume of tone did not always indicate a hearty response to the energetic command of the director. There were instances, however, when the chorus rose finely to the spirit of the composition, and this was especially the case in the opening chorus, "Lord, Thou Alone Art God," in the chorale, "Sleepers, Wake, a Voice is Calling," and in the exquisite "How Lovely Are the Messengers."

The soloists of the evening were Mrs. Senbury C. Ford, soprano; Lella Livingston Morse, contralto; Edwin C. Towne, tenor, and David Bispham, bass. William A. Kirkpatrick was at the organ, and Dr. Anton Gietzner played the piano accompaniment.

Of the vocal quartet, Mrs. Ford unquestionably carried off the honors of the evening, though it is doubtful if her rank would not have been sharply contested by Miss Morse, had this young woman had an ample opportunity to be heard. As it was, her one solo, "But the Lord Is Mindful of His Own," was one of the gems of the performance. Miss Morse's voice has a delicious sympathetic quality, and is smooth throughout all its registers. She uses it with rare discretion and scored a genuine triumph.

Mrs. Ford's organ is one of great power and fair range. Here and there her vocalization is marred by a rather disturbing tremor, but nevertheless her performance was altogether acceptable. Perhaps the very best of all her numbers was the aria, "Jerusalem, Thou That Killest the Prophets." She sang it with a delicacy of expression and clearness of intonation that fell little short of perfection.

Mr. Towne was more than fair in his part of the oratorio. His tone is of rather a strident quality, and he sings with a certain kind of aggression, but, taken all in all, gave satisfaction.

Mr. Bispham sang with accustomed artistic finish, but his voice, making full allowance for a cold with which he has recently been afflicted, shows signs of wear which, under normal conditions, might be more readily concealed by his superb vocal technique. His best work was the aria "O God, Have Mercy Upon Me," and "For Know Ye Not?"

Mr. Kirkpatrick's playing lacked finish, especially so in the overture. Prof. Gietzner's piano accompaniment was decidedly artistic.

with his deft touches of pathos. In this play, too, Miss Elliott displays a humor and sincerity in the art of acting that places her at once in the front rank of American comedienne. The play is mounted with skill and taste.

Chase—Mrs. Herrmann and Vaudeville.

The Chase offering for the coming week, judging from the titles of the acts to be submitted, should surpass any past program of the present season. It is led by Mrs. Herrmann, the world-reigning "Queen of Mystery," in whose train there will appear Clayton White and Marie Stuart and their company, Josephine Sabel, Lotta Gladstone Brannan, and Martini, Eva Mudge, Hal Merritt, and the motion pictures, "The Prodigal Son." Mrs. Herrmann's Oriental gowns are described as "gorgeous conceptions of velvet, lace, and gold." Additional interest in her appearance will be aroused by the fact that she will present her new spectacle, "The Magic of the Orient," which is said to surpass "A Night in Japan."

Clayton White and Marie Stuart are both artists of long established success, best remembered here for "Dickey," which they have supplanted with "In Paris," said to offer them even finer comic opportunities than its bewitching little predecessor. Lotta Gladstone has long felt that she holds a fee simple upon the affections of the Chasettes. Brannan and Martini, as "The Professor and the Clumsy Other Fellow," will present a specialty running over with clever comedy. Eva Mudge, the talented American girl, who quite captivated London and Paris with her unique work as "The Military Maid," will be a number of exceptional interest. Hal Merritt, the comicalist, has an applause-winning monologue entitled "The Poster Girl."

Lafayette—"Under Southern Skies."

W. A. Brady's production of "Under Southern Skies" will be the attraction at the Lafayette Theater for one week beginning Monday next. "Nothing succeeds like success," and assurance of the manner in which the production was received in New York has cleared the way for a general approval. The newspaper criticisms in Gotham were wholly complimentary.

"It is an interesting and a human play," said Alan Dale in the "Journal," "and it has some characters that are charming."

"Under Southern Skies" is of Arcadian simplicity, and yet full of color and life and action. The stage settings show orange trees, ivy-grown balconies and long stretches of verdant country, while the men and women who are the principals of the piece wear the quaint, long-tailed coats and the high-waisted dresses generally associated with the time of the first Napoleon, but as much in fashion directly after the war in this country.

The thread of the plot in "Under Southern Skies" runs past any number of amusing and vivacious incidents. A bevy of girls come to celebrate the birthday party of the heroine, there is a scene on Halloween in which various old-fashioned tricks are tried, and merry-makers holding lighted pumpkins dance a stately measure to the music furnished by plantation negroes seen through the open windows. After all the problem plays and the hot-house farces of the past decade this bit of rustic idealism must come with a refreshing touch of a cool summer breeze.

Academy—"The Man Who Dared."

"The Man Who Dared," which comes to the Academy for one week commencing Monday, February 16, is from the pen of the young actor-author, Howard Hall. The scenes are laid in France, and the time is the present. The story deals with love, intrigue, and romance, and is cleverly woven together. There is a bright vein of comedy which permeates the play, relieving the tension of the intensely dramatic incidents which follow in rapid succession. Charles E. Blaney has provided a sumptuous setting for each of the five acts. Mr. Hall is the author and star. Accompanying Mr. Hall this season as his leading support is Miss Nina Morris.

Empire—"A Hunter Highball."

The Bijou Stock Company will be seen at the Empire in a new and original burlesque next week which is said to be very funny. It is the work of Hamilton Wiley, and is entitled "A Hunter Highball." Carr and Burns will furnish most of the comedy, and Flo Jansen will be heard in a number of new songs. This young actress has already become popular with the patrons of the Empire.

Lyceum—"Royal Burlesquers."

The "Royal Burlesquers" will be seen at the Lyceum Theater for one week commencing with the usual matinee Monday. This attraction is said to be one of the most popular that visits this city, and will no doubt be welcomed heartily.

As an extra attraction Manager Kernan has engaged Jack Munroe, the "Butte Miner," the only man who has ever gotten a decision over James J. Jeffries, and now matched to fight Tom Sharkey. He will appear at every performance.

ALEXANDRIA NEWS NOTES.

Working Hard for the Parade.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 12.—The executive committee having charge of the parade to be held Monday, February 23, in observance of the birthday, last night held a long and busy session in the rooms of the Business Men's League, and much business of importance in connection with the parade was transacted. Capt. James E. King, chairman of the military committee, read a telegram from W. E. Thompson, of Company F, Richmond, asking if accommodations could be secured for fifty members of his company who contemplate coming here and participating in the parade. It is expected that the Washington Guards, of Fredericksburg, Va., will also come here for the parade. Nearly all the organizations invited to participate have accepted, and the parade has now assumed unexpected proportions, and bids fair to eclipse anything of the kind ever before given in the history of the old town. Two brass bands are now assured, and the committee is working hard to secure even more. The entertainment committee is making elaborate preparations for entertaining several thousand uniformed men.

An invitation has been extended to Governor A. J. Montague to be present at the parade, and to this end Harry Hammond, of the executive committee, left this morning for Richmond, where he will be joined by State Senator S. R. Donohoe, of Fairfax, and Delegate James R. Caton, of the latter of this city, and the three will personally wait upon the governor, and urge him to attend the parade.

Suit for Infringement of Patent.

The Computing Scale Company, of Dayton, Ohio, has entered suit in the United States Circuit Court for the eastern district of Virginia against the firm of Kinchloe & Co., composed of James Kinchloe and H. Ashby Thompson, for infringement of patent rights. The suit, it is said, will affect the Automatic Scale Company, and, if successful, it is understood, will practically put a stop to the sale of the entire product of the Automatic Scale Company. Most of the stock of the last-named company is, it is said, held by Washingtonians. Kinchloe & Co. are the sole distributing agents for the latter company for the United States. A chancery subpoena has been issued returnable at the March rule.

Mrs. Jane Boush's Funeral.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Jane Boush, widow of Capt. Nathaniel Boush, who died yesterday morning, will occur at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from her late home, 212 South Pitt Street. The interment will be private. The deceased was a daughter of the late Henry Chatham, and is survived by four children—Samuel C. and Constance Boush, of this city; Mrs. Kate Moore, of Woodstock, Va.; and Nathaniel Boush, who lives near Richmond. Mrs. Boush suffered a slight fracture of the thigh by falling down a flight of stairs at her home three weeks ago, and since that time has gradually declined. She deceased was eighty-five years of age.

On Trial for Arson.

The attention of the corporation court was taken up with the trial of James Richards, Jr., and Oliver Rodier, both under indictment for arson. Both men were arrested on the night of October 7 last on the charge of having set fire to the frame saloon conducted by James J. Kelley, at the intersection of Duke and Peyton Streets, and arraigned before Mayor Simpson in the police court the morning of October 8. The evidence against the men was incriminating, and their cases were referred to the grand jury, who in turn indicted them.

Washington's Dueling Pistols.

A trophy highly prized for its historical associations is a pair of brass-barreled dueling pistols which formerly belonged to Gen. George Washington and which were exhibited in this city yesterday by Sheriff J. P. Leachman, of Prince William county. They were presented by General Washington to Philip Danvers, his private secretary. When Danvers' effects were sold in the year 1804 they were purchased at auction by Philip Marsteller.

An Insulted Witness.

A woman placed on the stand to testify in the Waters-Maddux habeas corpus case last Tuesday morning, when asked by counsel for plaintiff if she had not on some former occasion made a statement at variance to that she then made, said: "I will not stand for it. I am not accustomed to having my word questioned by a gentleman. I will not stay here." And with the latter statement hurriedly left the courtroom, to the astonishment of the lawyer.

PERPETUAL ADORATION

SERVICES AT ST. PATRICK'S

The solemn services of the Perpetual Adoration Society will be held tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. Rev. Dr. Stafford will preach the sermon. The altar will be beautifully decorated, and the choir will perform the following musical program: Trio, "Ti Pregho, O Padre," Curschman; soprano solo, "Veni Creator," Smith; violin solo, "Offertory," A. Peron; contralto solo (with violin obligato), "O Salutaris," Rossini; bass solo, "Judica Me," Dudley Buck; tenor solo and chorus, "Tantum Ergo," Millard. The soloists are: Soprano, Mrs. Annie Grant Fugitt; alto, Elizabeth Tyler; tenor, Melville D. Henney; bass, Charles Goodchild; violin, Sol Minster. The choir will be assisted by Mrs. J. K. Wallace, contralto, and A. W. Porter, basso. Prof. Armand Gumprecht is organist and director.

HERMIS RULES FAVORITE

IN THREE BIG HANDICAPS

The winter tracks that have been opened on the Brooklyn Suburban and Brighton Handicaps show Hermis to be installed as favorite in each event. His prices are Brooklyn, 6 to 1; Suburban, 8 to 1; Brighton, 10 to 1. Advance Guard is second choice in the Brighton, and even second choice with Blues and Articulate in the other two handicaps. Floarline, whose Derby victory at New Orleans attracted some attention, is in all of the races at 92 pounds, and is held at 30 and 40 to 1. Wild Pirate offers the largest returns. That horse is quoted at 200 to 1 in each race. In the Brighton, Circus is held at the same figure, but drops to 150 in the other two events.

No Silk Mill for Newport News.

The deal to secure a plant of the Liberty Silk Company for Newport News has fallen through. Local capitalists had subscribed $100,000 and a site had been selected, but a committee reports that it would be inadvisable to attempt to locate the industry there at present.

The Rev. J. S. Peters May Not Accept

It is not certain that the Rev. J. Sidney Peters, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Hampton, will accept the superintendency of the Anti-Saloon League, to succeed the Rev. C. H. Crawford. Mr. Peters says he will leave the matter entirely in the hands of his congregation.

To Be Tried in Richmond.

The case of Robert Barker, charged with betrayal of Louis M. Cormick under promise of marriage, will be called before Justice Crutchfield, in Richmond today. Justice Brown, of Newport News, decided that he had no jurisdiction in the case.

COMMISSIONERS INDORSE

POLICE PENSION FUND RELIEF

The District Commissioners have recommended favorable action on Senate bill 7030, "for the relief of pensioners of the metropolitan police fund." The object of this legislation is to provide for the payment of the shortage in the pensions due certain members of the police force from June 30, 1894, to May 31, 1896. Failure of these pensioners to receive their full allotment during that period was due to a deficiency in the police fund's relief fund.

Though this source of embarrassment was obviated by the act of Congress of June 11, 1896, authorizing the use of moneys derived from fines in the police court to meet any deficiency which might occur in the policemen's and firemen's relief funds, the deprivation of the sum in arrears prior to the passage of this act was severely felt, and made it necessary for some of those depending upon it to incur obligations which are a burden upon them to the present time.

MARYLAND NOTES.

ANNAPOLIS.

Court Decisions.

The court of appeals at Annapolis yesterday rendered opinions in five Baltimore city cases.

The case of Roger T. Gill, administrator of Catherine L. Straylor vs. Margaret Donovan, by Edward L. Donovan, her husband, is an appeal from the circuit court No. 2 of Baltimore city, whose judgment is affirmed in an opinion by Judge Jones.

In the case of William J. Johnson, individually and as administrator, and Mary Ellen Keller vs. Agnes J. Lippert and John J. Lippert, her husband, Judge Jones delivered the opinion of the court of appeals reversing the order passed therein by circuit court No. 2 of Baltimore city.

In the case of John A. Tompkins et al., receivers of the Maryland Brewing Company, vs. Speffy, Jones & Co. et al. the decree of circuit court No. 2 of Baltimore is affirmed by the court of appeals in an opinion by Judge Schmucker.

Judge Briscoe delivered the opinion of the court of appeals in the case of Mary C. Taylor vs. Hattie V. Forrest, reversing the judgment of the Baltimore city circuit court and awarding a new trial.

In the case of coal supply by Schaub Bros. furnished to the city of Baltimore the decision of the court below—the Baltimore city court—was affirmed, Judge Briscoe delivering the opinion.
